

“GIVE ME A LITTLE SIGN”

The groundbreaking new episode of the award-winning series Maya & Miguel, “Give Me A Little Sign,” will premiere on Monday, September 25 on PBS KIDS GO! (check local listings) and will be broadcast in open caption in honor of National Deaf Awareness Week (September 24 – September 30). The episode will be repeated each day for the remainder of the week (in closed caption) to officially kick-off Maya & Miguel’s third season, which begins with all new episodes on October 2.

Give Me A Little Sign

In “Give Me A Little Sign,” the Santos twins and their cousin, Tito, make a new friend, Marco, who is deaf. Together the children gain new insights into communication.

Give Me A Little Sign

Marco speaks American Sign Language (ASL) with twins Maya and Miguel Santos in the new episode “Give Me A Little Sign,” which premieres during National Deaf Awareness Week (September 24 – September 30).

Give Me A Little Sign

Maya signs “I love you” with her twin brother Miguel in a special episode, which celebrates friendship, embracing differences, and communication.
